Dear Ms Louise t John Howe,

Thank you for your e-mail. I note that none of the inspectors' areas of latest concerns relate to the JC Strategy for the southern part of the plan area... those communities alone the Waveney.

Would I be correct in thinking that either

1. the objections to the JCS relating to these areas are sufficiently expressed and do not need further information, before they are determined by the inspectors; or
2. the inspectors have already considered these objections to the soundness of the JCS and decided they are not relevant.

In either case it would appear that further representation from those concerned over the plan's implication on and application to the the south of the region need take no further action.

All good wishes for 2011

Brian Falk
